How everyone's health can benefit from washing their hands?

Vinod Chandrasekhar Dixit
Free-lance Journalist, Writer & Cartoonist
(dixitpratkar@yahoo.in)

Hand washing is one of the most effective ways to prevent the spread of illnesses. There is a need to increase awareness and understanding about the importance of hand washing with soap as an easy, effective, and affordable way to prevent diseases and save our lives. The habit of proper hand washing is directly linked to one's health especially among school going children.

For hand washing to be more effective it must be accomplished consistently at key times, such as after using the toilet or before contact with food. Hand washing is currently a hot topic in behavior change and the water, sanitation, and hygiene sector.

Hand-washing is the No. 1 prevention against spread of infection, inside and outside the hospital setting. It is important in the home, in schools and in every workplace. It is the cornerstone of infection-control practice and education for everyone who works in health care.

Every year worldwide, 8.8 million children younger than age 5 die of preventable illnesses. There are many children in the world who do not have access to clean water, or the habit or means to wash their hands properly. It is also observed that when students have access to clean water, soap, and toilet facilities, they are less likely to drop out or miss classes due to ill. We know that hand washing with soap is the most effective and inexpensive way to prevent diarrheal diseases, reducing incidence by up to 47% and combined with improved sanitation, this is boosted to 68%.

Many diseases are transmitted when we don't wash our hands. Bacterial, viral and fungal infections can be prevented if the hands are washed properly every day. Worm infestation, anemia, malnutrition and diarrhea are the common health hazards caused by unhygienic hands. If there is no hygiene, there is no health. Hand washing with soap, kills germs, bacteria, and viruses from hands. Regular hand washing can prevent the spread of diseases like diarrhea, respiratory infections, and more. Hand hygiene is essential in healthcare settings, food handling, and everyday life.

The introduction of water, sanitation and hygiene interventions in schools, including hand washing with soap, is an entry point for children to understand and then take these good hygiene practices back into their homes and communities.

Hand washing is a small action that can have big benefits. Let us progress towards the goal of maintaining a global profile on the importance of hand hygiene in health care and to 'bring people together' in support of hand hygiene improvement globally.

It is a need of the hour to spread the word about hand washing, build sinks and tippy taps, and demonstrate the simplicity and value of clean hands. We need to emphasize the importance of hand washing as a way to prevent disease, the necessity of using soap instead of only water, how everyone's health can benefit from washing their hands, and the key times for hand washing, including before and after eating. ## Taiwan Excellence Showcases Cutting-Edge Smart and Green Manufacturing Solutions

Ahmedabad, Taiwan Excellence will spotlight 22 award-winning brands and 44 pioneering industrial solutions at Automation Expo 2025 (August 11-14, Bombay Exhibition Centre, Mumbai), reinforcing Taiwan's strategic role in India's green and digital manufacturing revolution. The showcase under the concept of "Green Vision, Smart Manufacturing" features AI-powered automation, sustainable metalworking technologies, and Industry 4.0-ready robotics aimed at boosting productivity, energy efficiency, and ESG performance across Indian industries. Backed by Taiwan's Ministry of Economic Affairs (MOEA), Taiwan Excellence is a globally respected certification that recognizes products excelling in R&D, design, quality, and market viability. This year's pavilion comes amid rapid deepening Taiwan-India industrial cooperation highlighted by a historic US$10 billion bilateral trade in 2024 and a proposed labor mobility pact poised to strengthen supply chain and human capital ties. A new feature of the year, the Taiwan Robotic Zone, will demonstrate state-of-the-art human-robotic collaboration and smart factory enablers from leading manufacturers including HIWIN, LEANTEC, TECHMAN ROBOT, and others. This hands-on exhibit aims to illustrate real-world applications that align with India's ambitions under Make in India, Digital India, and the push toward Green Industrialization. (22-2)

Why India should recognise South Yemen's independence

An Indian security guard was rescued from the Red Sea on July 10, 2025, after Yemeni Houthis sank the Eternity C, the ship on which he worked.

The Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC), meanwhile, helps the Houthis target Red Sea shipping not only out of animus toward Israel and the United States, but also because Revolutionary Guards-owned transport companies lose out financially if India-Middle East Economic Corridor (IMEC) traffic bypasses Iran. As a regional superpower and the world's fourth largest economy, India also relies on freedom of navigation and stability and security in the Indian Ocean basin. Rather than follow the West's tired and failed strategies on Yemen, India should take the diplomatic lead. For too long, Western priorities and assumptions have shaped policy toward Yemen. First and foremost, the US, the UK, and the UN have prioritised unity over defeating the Houthis. Outside powers have also promoted a big-tent approach. Both approaches make defeat of the Houthis and restoration of security impossible.

The assumption that broad coalitions bring peace and stability is rooted in wishful thinking rather than evidence. Forcing US President Donald Trump to share an office with Kamala Harris, the Democratic Party naming Joe Biden as post-Trump contested and won, would bring dysfunction, not smooth governance. Yet the international community forces divergent groups together into the Presidential Leadership Council. President Rashid al-Alimi represents the General People's Congress, the former political party of Yemen's long-time leader Ali Abdullah Saleh. Vice Chairmen of the Council come from the Southern Transitional Council, the Muslim Brotherhood, and Saleh's own family. Other tribal leaders and religious agendas fill out the council.

The practical problem with the Council, though, is that each member promotes his agenda over the paramount goal of defeating the Houthis. Yemen's Muslim Brotherhood branch too often supports Al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula and facilitates the smuggling of weapons to the Houthis. Their actions make them liable to the former terror designation, yet they remain a Trojan Horse inside the Presidential Leadership Council. Other northern officials prioritise undermining southern success over Houthi defeat. Aden has a surplus of fuel oil in its storage tanks, yet northern officials will not allow them to sell it. Residents of Aden suffer through 45-degree Celsius days with high humidity and no electricity for fans, let alone air conditioners. The greater problem, however, is the unchallenged belief among many diplomats that unity brings stability. In Yemen, that has never been the case. The British colonial Aden in 1839 as a coaling station to support British commerce and shipping to and from India. The Aden Colony became the Aden Protectorate, which then formed the Federation of Arab Arabia, as many residents now see themselves—Independent. The notion that there must be only one Yemen makes no logical sense when there are 22 Arab states, two Albanians (one called Kosovo, and two Romanias (one called Moldova). The international community recognised Kosovo and Moldova for purely practical reasons, as they recognised that forcing unity could actually worsen regional conflict. Here, India should play a diplomatic role. South Yemenis orient themselves toward India. Many Indians immigrated into Aden during the period of British control and
